B. C. Robinson, of Robinson & Co., stock dealers, has just returned from the markets and says he has a car of the finest mules now on the way that has ever come to Pickens.

There will be an all-day singing held at Camp Creek church on the fourth Sunday in this month. All lovers of good music are urged to attend and bring song books and well-filled baskets.

Mrs. A. E. Kelley, while looking out of her back door, last night, to see how the clouds looked, lost her balance and fell, breaking her arm. A physician was sent for and medical attention was promptly given her.

W. P. Long, living above Pickens, near E. Frank Loop-er's, lost his house about six weeks ago, with most of the contents. His friends and neighbors turned in and built a nice house for him, and he is profoundly grateful to them for their kindness, and takes this method to thank all who so kindly helped him.

The second attraction for the season, in Pickens' Lyceum course, was the "Romancers Concert Co.", of Pittsburg, Pa., who gave a most creditable entertainment in the High School auditorium last Thursday evening. Their instrumental music as well as their songs were well rendered and highly enjoyed. The attraction that was billed for Pickens went to pieces and the "Romancers Concert Co."

was a substitute attraction; however, it was a much better one than the audience really expected to hear. Robert C. Lawrence, baritone and reader, was the manager and had associated with him Roy A. Young, first tenor and mandolin; Otto P. Milde, second tenor and violin; Nicholas Holmes, basso and piano. Mr. Holmes, although blind and suffering from other ills, proved himself to be a splendid performer. We know too little of music to go into the descriptive technique of it. All we can say, judging from the words of encomium we heard on all sides, we take it that it was a first-rate performance, and no audience will be humbugged where they are billed to appear.

Born, on the 30th ult., to Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Goodwin, a son.

H. A. Richey has been confined to his room this week with la grippe.

By request of Clerk of Court Boggs to hold our forms open until Thursday morning for a sale, we are a day late this week.

Remember the poultry meeting in the SENTINEL office on the evening of the 14th instant, at 7.30 o'clock. The members are all urged to come and bring a friend with them.

Monday noon no little excitement and commotion was caused by the cry of "Fire! fire!" followed by a report of something bursting! On investigation it was found that the lighting plant was on fire. The cause of the combustion is not known. The tanks of carbide exploded, and every time water was thrown on it, it created more gas and a bigger blaze. The plant is a total wreck and loss, and it is not thought that the stockholders will re-invest in this kind of a lighting outfit. We understand that the Holder Shoals have been purchased by local capital and a movement is on foot to put in an electric plant there this summer. This ought to pay handsomely.
